Intellectual Freedom

To the Editor of The Inquirer:

For years we have been told that only totalitarian governments interfere with intellectual freedom; only totalitarian governments subsidize and use the schools and the press to implement government policy.

Now we learn that an arm of our Government, the United States Government, has been using the same totalitarian methods: insidiously, secretly, the CIA has been infiltrating institutions, subsidizing groups and the press of our country in order to influence thought and opinion.

Unless citizens insist that their elected representatives in Congress investigate, expose, and abolish the CIA, intellectual freedom in our democracy will be only a delusion.
